Rabbi Joseph Telushkin

Joseph Telushkin, named by Talk magazine as one of the 50 best speakers in the United States, is one of America's leading ethicists.

Rabbi Telushkin, hailed by Jewish Week as "America's rabbi," is a renaissance figure, whose reputation extends well beyond the Jewish community. His novel, An Eye for An Eye, became the basis for four episodes of David Kelley's Emmy award-winning TV series, The Practice, and he wrote an episode for the TV series, Touched by An Angel for Kirk Douglas, in which Douglas stars as a man who, after a lifetime of struggle with his faith, returns to God. The renowned historian Paul Johnson labeled Telushkin's A Code of Jewish Ethics—winner of the 2007 National Jewish Book Award as the Book of the Year — as "the most comprehensive introduction to Jewish ethics to appear for many years." Telushkin's work has been the subject of a PBS special entitled, Moral Imagination: A Day by Day Guide to Ethical Living, that aired throughout the United States in 2000.

A much anticipated new book building on the groundbreaking title, Words That Hurt, Words That Heal: How the Words You Choose Shape Your Destiny, came out in January!

A penetrating speaker with the timing of a standup comic—Telushkin's earlier book, was hailed by Larry Gelbart (author of Mash): "I don't know if Jews are really the chosen people, but Telushkin's book makes a strong argument that they're the funniest"—so that his talks challenge even as they entertain. One thing is certain: you will walk out of Telushkin's speech different than when you walked in.

We'll be there in March!
