

ENDOWED IN MEMORY OF HARRY AND SHIRLEY NACHMAN Vol. 82 No. 6 November - December 2025 Cheshvan - Kislev 5786

A PLACE TO BE SPIRITUAL

FROM THE PRESIDENT, JOE WENER

I began my Rosh Hashanah remarks by saying that Rosh Hashanah is not only the start of a new year...it is a time of reflection, for renewal and for hope. Never could I have anticipated that those words would ring true in such a short time. Along with you, I remained hopeful and prayed for an end to the nightmare that began only after

I woke up on that horrible morning. Shemini Atzeret had always been a meaningful and wonderful time of year for me, leading to the joy of Simchat Torah, the ending of the High Holidays, welcoming the New Year and celebrating Torah anew. I remember going to shul with my folks, marching with my Israeli flag with an apple stuck on top, and dancing the hakofot with my friends. We Jews sure knew how to party and the prize at the end was eating the apple! As a kid, it taught me that there was joy and happiness to be found in religion, not just quiet study, prayer, and reflection. As motivation didn't come easy to this energetic and rambunctious junior "cong" acolyte who questioned everything and challenged the rest, this was something even I could look forward to every year. It all came back when I got to share the joy by accompanying my clones to Simchat Torah at Adat Shalom during their formative years.

Cut to present. Since that fateful day in 2023, my thoughts of Shemini Atzeret were that it would no longer signal joy and celebration but would forever live on in infamy. But this is not the way of our people. We possess a singular strength that is deeply fortified by community. We persevere in ways that sometimes surprises us but always surprises those who seek to harm us. I've heard it said that it comes from millenia of being scorned but it is the way we continue to cherish life and love and family despite adversity. Then came Shemini Atzeret 2025 and the promise that light will always overcome darkness. We will suffer and grieve with our brethren the innocent lives lost and remember not only the sanctity of life but also that we are bound to Tikkun Olam for ourselves and all of the world. If not us, then who?

I ended my Rosh Hashanah speech by saying that Rosh Hashanah calls on us to ask ourselves who we've been, and who we want to become. It's a time of teshuvah—returning to our best selves, our values, our community and, our faith. We gather here to support one another, to give and receive forgiveness, and to encourage and pray for peace and happiness in our lives and the lives of those we love and cherish. Shemini Atzeret and Simcha Torah are now almost a whole year away so we have time to regain our strength to live our lives to the fullest. That is our way and that is what those who have been taken would want for us.

Alexandra and Joe at Adat Shalom's outdoor Shabbat Rocks in the Sollish Family Mikdash.

FROM RABBI AARON BERGMAN

Abraham Lincoln is my all-time favorite president. He was courageous, self-effacing and a deep thinker about what America could mean to the world. He not only listened to the viewpoints of his opponents, but appointed them to his cabinet, because he wanted to make sure that he was surrounded by thoughtful people and not just sycophants. He evolved his thinking over time as he confronted new realities and elevated his own morality as he heard the stories of those who were enslaved and oppressed.

In 1864 he was the first to declare Thanksgiving a national holiday. Thanksgiving had been celebrated in some communities in America since 1607, but Lincoln was the first to make it a holiday for the nation itself.

The language of the declaration, written for Lincoln by Secretary of State William Seward, is powerful and poetic. It said, "And I recommend to them that while offering up the ascriptions justly due to Him for such singular deliverances and blessings, they do also, ... commend to his tender care all those who have become widows, orphans, mourners or sufferers in the lamentable civil strife in which we are unavoidably engaged, and fervently implore the interposition of the Almighty Hand to heal the wounds of the nation and to restore it as soon as may be consistent with the Divine purposes to the full enjoyment of peace, harmony, tranquility and Union."

Lincoln did not wait for the end of the Civil War to offer gratitude and ask for kindness toward those in need on both sides. He delivered it in the middle of a war that would continue for another year and a half.

The story of Chanukah takes place in the middle of the war, not the end. It celebrates the Maccabees reclaiming and rededicating the Holy Temple, but the war for independence took another dozen years.

According to the first book of Maccabees, which was written around the time of the Chanukah story in the 2nd century BCE, the Maccabees declared eight days of thanksgiving, even though one would have been fine. Maybe the oil lasted for eight days because they were willing to celebrate those eight days. The celebration was giving thanks for getting the Temple back and for being able to resume their full lives as Jews.

There are only two mitzvot, two commandments, on Chanukah. The first is to light the lights, and if possible, place them so people outside can see them. Even in the darkest moments of our lives it is possible to find light and goodness and share that with the world.

The other is to give thanks. Thanks for everything, for the good things, and for the opportunity to help fix the bad, and gratitude for all those who struggled and gave their lives so we could be free.

This is what Lincoln meant in his dedication of the cemetery at Gettysburg in 1863.

"It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us – that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion – that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain – that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom – and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

FROM HAZZAN DANIEL GROSS SIGD & THANKSGIVING

If you have Jewish holidays programmed into your calendar like I do, you may have noticed that the holiday of Sigd occurs on November 20 of this year. Like many people, you may not know much (or anything) about Sigd. I thought I'd take this opportunity to talk about this lesser-known Jewish holiday in Israel and connect it to our lives here in the U.S.

Sigd is a special holiday celebrated by Beta Israel, what we know as the Ethiopian Jewish community. It takes place annually on 29 Cheshvan, exactly 50 days after Yom Kippur. For centuries, Beta Israel lived in isolation from other Jewish communities. Until the dramatic airlifts of the late 20th century that brought many Ethiopian Jews to Israel, their practices had developed independently. As a result, they preserved ancient traditions, including Sigd, that are distinct within the global Jewish story. Since 2008, Sigd has been a state holiday in Israel, offering a platform to celebrate Ethiopian Jewish heritage and educate others about Beta Israel's history and customs.

The word sigd means prostration in Ge'ez, the ancient liturgical language of Ethiopian Jews, and is related to the Aramaic sged, meaning to bow. The name reflects the humility and devotion that lie at the heart of the holiday. Historically, the Beta Israel community would ascend a mountaintop, echoing Moses' journey up Mount Sinai to receive the Torah (which we celebrate on Shavuot). In current times, Sigd celebrates Beta Israel's renewal of the covenant with God, the importance of the Torah, and the yearning for Jerusalem. It includes a communal fast, prayers, and the reading of sacred texts from the Torah, Psalms, and the books of Joshua, Judges, and Ruth. The fast ends at midday with a feast and celebration marked by dancing, joy, and community. In this way, Sigd blends themes of Yom Kippur's spiritual reflection with the joyful renewal of Shavuot (which, in a striking parallel, falls 50 days after Passover).

It is a beautiful coincidence that Sigd takes place around the same time as Thanksgiving, as the two holidays share powerful thematic ties. Both are rooted in gratitude — Sigd for Torah and survival, Thanksgiving for sustenance and freedom. Both celebrate community resilience after hardship, and both call us to reflect on where we've come from and where we're going. They are also both forward-looking — Sigd expresses longing for Jerusalem and spiritual wholeness, while Thanksgiving often includes hope for healing and unity.

Sigd and Thanksgiving — both are holidays that prove thankfulness and togetherness are timeless traditions. Chag Sigd Sameach and Happy Thanksgiving!

See page 7 for children's book suggestions and a recipe.

FROM RABBI BLAIR NOSANWISCH

This Yom Kippur, I shared an observation about our American collective that I want to reiterate here: our political differences are not the same as moral differences. I developed this language thanks to Dr. Yehuda Kurtzer of the Shalom Hartman Institute. When he came and spoke to the Michigan Board of Rabbis in April of this year, he drew a distinction between the moral, the political, and the partisan. In his words:

"Our moral universe is actually being constrained by our political and our partisan commitments. I'm concerned that we are engaged in a massive conflation between these discourses. And I think as Jews, we do so at our peril. Isaiah Berlin is famous for saying, 'Jews are like everybody else but more so.' In this context American Jews are simply playing out larger American trends but through the particular expressions of Jewish communal life."

What this conflation feels like is the fury and anger at our political opponents and the inability to see them as holding equally valid concerns and animating values. Even as I write this I can imagine your blood starting to boil as, in reading these words, you can picture your political enemy. In Yehuda's talk, he explained that between the first and second world war America was highly polarized. One of the major things that contributed to de-escalation was that libraries and other public institutions hosted town halls and other such spaces where citizens could learn and discuss together.

In my own experience, the more polarized our discourse has become, the more thirsty I am for spaces that ask me to consider a wide range of perspectives. More often than not, I find that people's views are animated by kernels of truth. I believe we have to make space within our families, communities, and society to talk about the real fears and losses that are animating our disagreements. We need to bring these sacred uncertainties to each other, to name the things we are afraid of losing and be willing to speak with one another about them.

If you too find yourself bogged down by the toxicity of our discourse and yearn for a space where you could authentically grapple with the big questions that face our nation, through a Torah lens, I want to encourage you to join our "Big Questions Beit Midrash" this December (and beyond).

Each of the 4 sessions will focus on a pressing issue for our time: citizenship, justice, security, and the environment. They will be co-led by me and Rabbi Michael Langer, a friend and Rabbi who I greatly admire, who teaches at Frankel Jewish Academy. The structure of these sessions will be to start by mapping out the spectrum of views without our American discourse, and then to study how these various topics are treated within Torah (meaning both the Tanach and the corpus of rabbinic thought). I hope you will register to be part of this communal effort to connect and grow our souls together.

Step into the vibrant world of Israeli art with Israeli Artists, a captivating exhibition that celebrates the fusion of cultural heritage, personal expression, and contemporary technique. This special showcase features a curated collection of paintings, mixed media works, and limited-edition prints—each piece telling a unique story inspired by the landscapes, people, and spirit of Israel.

More than an art show, this is a meaningful opportunity to support Israeli artists in the months following October 7. Meet at least eight featured artists in person and explore works from over 30 talented creators. Brought to Michigan by Coby's Judaica in partnership with the Jewish Federation of Detroit – Israel and Overseas.

SAMMI SHAPIRO

sshapiro@adatshalom.org

It was a joy seeing and talking to so many families throughout the chaggim. There's always such energy and excitement and I want to make sure we carry that throughout the year!

One of the members I've met with is Elana Hopman, chair of the Engagement Committee. Read a little about who she is and how she wants the engagement committee to help shape all of our experiences at Adat Shalom!

Shalom! I'm thrilled to serve as your new Engagement Chair, and I'm excited to get started.

Over the coming months, I'll be reaching out to hear from our community through surveys, in-person conversations, and other opportunities to connect. Whether you've been part of Adat Shalom for decades or just joined us, your experience matters, and I want to hear it all—the good, the challenges, and your ideas for making membership even more meaningful.

If you're interested in participating in a survey, sitting down for a chat, or sharing feedback in any form, please reach out to me at elana.hopman@gmail.com. I'm looking forward to working together to strengthen our wonderful community.

Here are some glimpses into what's coming up:

November 9 • Chesed Fest

This month's chesed fest is bringing together families with kindergarten and first grade students. This is a great opportunity to learn about Shabbat, and put values in action with mitzvot of gemilut chasadim (acts of loving kindness).

November 15 • Building with Oded

Come meet Oded, one of our shinshinim for the year. Together we are going to put our brains to work creating a one of a kind chain reaction contraption. So if you love building, innovation, and meeting the amazing shinshinim who come to Detroit then join us for this fun Shabbat morning. Email sshapiro@adatshalom.org!

December 14 • Chesed Fest

Another month of mitzvot! This month we're bringing together families with 2nd graders. We'll learn about the value of bikur cholim - visiting the sick– and how our kind offerings of challah, soup, and cards help bring joy and light to those who are recovering.

December 17 • Chanukah Maccabeats Concert

Whoa! We all love the Maccabeats and we all love our Metro Detroit Jewish Community. Come celebrate as one with a boisterous concert and candle lighting. Hosted by Shaarey Zedek. Register at jlive.app/events/13091

November is recognized as Mizrahi Heritage Month, celebrating the history, culture, and resilience of Mizrahi and Sephardic Jews. A key part of this observance is the Israeli commemoration of November 30th as the Day to Mark the Departure and Expulsion of Jews from Arab Countries and Iran, remembering the exodus of approximately 850,000 Jewish refugees from Middle Eastern and North African countries in the 20th century. Check out some facts about Jews in India from PJ Library and My Jewish Learning:

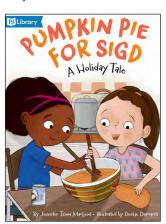

India

India has long been a welcoming home for Jews. The first Jews arrived there around the 10th century BCE as merchants. From this wave of newcomers, Southern India became home to the Cochini Jews, while the Bene Israel community settled in what is now modern-day Mumbai, Ahmedabad, and Karachi (now in Pakistan). Check out these books to learn more.

Queen of the Hanukkah Dosas is the story of a Jewish family that also has Indian heritage. "I'm pretty sure I've never seen anyone from Hebrew school at the Indian Market," the main character says, "and I've never seen anyone from the market dropping kids off at Hebrew School." His family embraces its multilayered background by frying up crispy dosas (traditional Indian pancakes) instead of latkes. And when they get locked out of their house just before their Hanukkah party, the protagonist's quirky little sister Sadie draws on her special talents and uniqueness to save the day.

The Blue Butterfly of Cochin is a beautifully written and gorgeously illustrated picture book of historical fiction that brings readers inside the Jewish community of Cochin, India through the eyes of Leah, a girl who loves to tell stories to the children of the synagogue and to the blue butterflies who always listen as they rest in the shade of the coconut tree. When Leah learns that her community will be immigrating to Israel, she feels conflicted: she is excited to go, but heartbroken to leave Cochin. A blue butterfly comforts her, reminding her that Cochin will always be with her, in her heart and in her stories.

Dabu, Ethiopian Honey Bread

- PJ Library, pjlibrary.org

Ingredients:

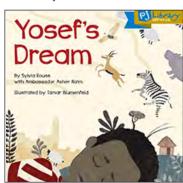

- 2 1/4 cups warm water
- 1 1/2 tablespoons yeast
- 3 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 3 1/2 cups whole-wheat flour (optional can also use all-purpose)
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 to 2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh herbs like rosemary, thyme, or sage (optional)
- 1 cup honey (can also use agave, maple syrup, or a combination)
- 1/4 cup vegetable oil

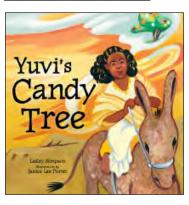

Directions:

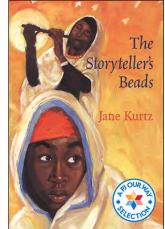

- Combine water and yeast in a bowl and set aside until foamy, 5 to 10 minutes.
- In a separate bowl, combine flour, salt, and herbs. While mixing, slowly add the water and yeast mixture, honey, and oil until combined.
- 3. Knead dough on a lightly floured surface until a ball forms. If dough is too sticky, add a tablespoon of flour at time.
- Place dough in a large oiled bowl and cover with plastic wrap or a damp cloth. Allow dough to rise for about 1 1/2 hours or until doubled.
- 5. Preheat oven to 375 degrees and grease two 9x4-inch loaf pans. Divide dough into two oblong halves, put each half in a prepared loaf pan, cover, and let rise for half an hour.
- 6. Bake loaves until the tops are golden brown, approximately 35 minutes. Let loaves rest for 10 minutes, then transfer to a cooling rack. Enjoy!

Being a Positive Jewish Role Model

The Madrichim, a cohort of caring and dedicated 8th to 12th graders, are an integral part of our Adat Shalom community. Our Madrichim program offers teens valuable opportunities to develop communication and leadership skills, increase self-confidence, explore Jewish values, and learn practical teaching skills by assisting teachers in the classroom and attending trainings led by Jodi Gross and the clergy.

As positive Jewish role models, they work with students on assignments, lead activities and games, and do much more. Part of building community in our classrooms is showing younger students that Jewish learning and engagement continues after becoming a Bar or Bat Mitzvah. Having teens in the classroom makes this message come alive. Being in the Madrichim program lays a meaningful foundation for lasting connections to our Adat Shalom community.

When I recently asked Madrichim what impact they have made and/or hope to make this year, they shared...

I've helped my students feel more connected to Jewish learning, and I hope they leave the year with curiosity, confidence, and a sense of belonging.

I hope that the students see me as someone they can talk to if something is going on

I hope to give my students a better sense of what it means to be Jewish and to understand their own feelings about Judaism.

I hope that I am a positive role model for the kids.

I am beyond proud of the Madrichim!

College Connections (undergraduate and graduate students)

Throughout the school year our rabbis visit students from Adat Shalom at Michigan universities. And, thanks to parent volunteers, Adat Shalom sends care packages before Chanukah and Pesach. You can assist us in helping your child stay connected to Adat Shalom by completing a short informal form at adatshalom.org/college or email the information on it to me at <code>igross@adatshalom.org</code>. If your student/young adult has not moved, please let me know as well. Thank you for helping keep our database current. - Jodi

SISTERHOOD

What a pleasant surprise to have summer weather extending far into fall. We have been fortunate to enjoy sunny, warm days for such a long time. In these final two months of 2025 our daylight gets shorter but we have many opportunities to learn, celebrate, and connect with one another.

We invite you to join us on Saturday, November 22, for our annual Sisterhood Shabbat. This beautiful service, led entirely by women, is one of the highlights of our year. It is always inspiring to see our Sisterhood members come together in prayer and leadership.

On Tuesday, December 4, we have an evening of holiday fun planned with our White Elephant Gift Exchange and dinner. We will exchange, trade, and steal gifts from one another during this fun evening. Bring a new or gently used wrapped gift that you think someone would really appreciate. Be creative and share in the fun as we enjoy Chanukah together.

We are looking forward to our second Sisterhood Shabbaton on December 13th. It is a day to take a break from our busy lives and experience the joys of Shabbat with other women in our community. A delicious lunch will be served and there will be a variety of programs, learning experiences and time for relaxation and renewal, as we share Shabbat together and conclude with Havdalah.

Looking ahead, we are proud to announce our 2026 Adat Shalom Women of Distinction: Lillian Schostak and Carol Vieder. For many years, both Lillian and Carol have devoted their time and talents to our Sisterhood Gift Shop. Through their dedication, the shop has flourished and continues to be a vibrant part of our community. We are delighted to honor these two remarkable women at Women's Day @ Adat Shalom on May 7, 2026. Please mark your calendar now and plan to join us for this special celebration!

We invite you to renew your membership, join us at the upcoming events, and continue to be part of our dynamic circle of women.

Adat Shalom is your place to be!

MEN'S CLUB

Just because the High Holidays are over and another October 7th has passed, it does not mean that the opportunity to reflect is over. Reflecting on a theme that I have spoken about in many of my articles, the need for community is greater than ever.

Our community is centered around Israel. Nestled in the hotly contested Middle East, Israel is not only the land of milk and honey, but really the only safe space that we as Jews have to go. While some Jews, both here and abroad, may not always agree with the leadership, it is important that we connect with the community and not let anything get in the way of our love for the Land. While we can hope for mutually fair treatment of and by our neighbors, we cannot let their approach to us overshadow our need to stay unified as a people to protect the land that countless soldiers and settlers have died protecting from those same people looking to destroy it and our existence.

October 7th was a pivotal moment in our history; whether we feel that it was handled well by the government or not, nothing can get in the way of our unified front to support Israel during her challenging time. Community is what we have here at Adat Shalom and a community that needs to continue to be unified for our preservation.

Just like Israel, it is your support and involvement that continues to support the preservation of Your Men's Club! Over the last few months, we were able to host some great events through your support and participation. That included hosting Jordan Field, of the Detroit Tigers, Michigan Sports Hall of Fame, and Michigan Jewish Sports Hall of Fame. We had a great Evening under the Stars during Sukkot with Rabbi Bergman and have been preparing for our upcoming Chillin' with the Clergy this coming week on November 5 at 7pm at Top Golf. We are also introducing a new sort of "health" event – Financial Health on December 7 at 10:30am. With all of the changes to the tax laws, our community can stand together to understand how these changes will impact each and every one of us in the coming new year. You won't want to miss these two great events. Register today on Jlive!

SOCIAL ACTION

SOCIAL ACTION IN ACTION

Thank you to everyone who contributed to the Yad Ezra Kol Nidre food drive. Yad Ezra provides food to those experiencing food insecurity. A core value is to treat clients with dignity, respect, and compassion. Without this service, many in our community would not have the proper nutrition. This includes men, women, and children. If you are interested in volunteer opportunities with Yad Ezra, check their website: yadezra.org.

A small group met recently to discuss future community impact programs. Projects included Lighthouse Housing the Homeless, Ronald McDonald House, a blood donation drive, and Hope Hospitality and Warming Center. In addition, we are looking to support a new project that focuses on the housing of veterans. Thank you to Clara Elbinger, Randie Levin, Debby Portney, Debbie Cohen, Shelley Gach-Droz, and Marcia Garland for their valuable input at the meeting.

Do you have a Social Action Project that you would like Adat Shalom to consider? Our community is always looking for ways to help.

Please watch for upcoming programs and dates.

SERVE AND BE SERVED

Serve and Be Served - Making a Difference Together

Serve and Be Served (SABS) continues to live up to its name, warmth, teamwork, and generosity to communities across Metro Detroit.

Our most recent outing took us to Yad Ezra on Sunday, October 12, 2025. We were a small but mighty crew! As the day began, some of the more seasoned volunteers guided us through the impressive warehouse and mentored us on the highly efficient shopping system. Each volunteer took turns "shopping" for individual families from lists clients had filled out ahead of time—one of the many things that makes Yad Ezra so unique among local food pantries. Between packing orders, we had the chance to chat, share stories, and even explore the on-site greenhouse, which is filled with lush vegetation and growing vegetables—including a pomegranate tree! We look forward to returning to Yad Ezra again in the future.

Earlier this year, SABS had another successful run at Crossroads of Michigan in Detroit. Eight of our members began the day with breakfast at The Gallery Restaurant in Bloomfield Hills ("Be Served"), before heading downtown to Crossroads, where six more volunteers joined us—14 in all, energized and ready to Serve. Under the leadership of Executive Chef Mariah Moore, we quickly got organized and set up an efficient assembly line. After preparing about 100 meals, the Crossroads doors opened, and clients began to arrive. By the end of the day, we had assembled and served more than 400 meals, each one offered with a smile. We are deeply grateful to all who volunteered—their warmth, teamwork, and commitment made both experiences deeply meaningful.

Looking ahead, SABS will be helping at the Lighthouse Food Pantry in November and preparing soup kits for Metro Food Rescue in December. While these events are already full, we're planning future opportunities with CARES, Hechtman/Meer Apartments, and possibly another visit to Crossroads Soup Kitchen early next year.

We hope more of you will join us on our next mission to Serve and Be Served—we look forward to serving (and being served) with you!

CHESED COMMITTEE

In September, our first Chesed Fest braided over 25 loaves of challah and restocked the very empty freezer with soup. I would like to thank Rachel Matz and Phreddy Nosanwisch for all of their help to make this happen. Our goal this year is to never let the freezer get empty, a lofty goal when we are delivering every week! New this year, we are expanding our deliveries to include newly married couples! As always please reach out to the clergy if you know someone who should receive a challah/soup delivery.

The Chesed Committee is excited to host two upcoming Chesed Fests, Sunday, November 9 & December 14. All of our events are open to the community, we just ask that you pre-register so we can make sure we have enough supplies! Registration can be found at:

We are also looking for individuals who would like to take on a bit more responsibility at Chesed Fests! This could be a one time commitment or ongoing. To sign up use the QR code or contact me at chesed@adatshalom.org

If you would like to sign up to make deliveries on Fridays, please sign up using the QR code or reach out to Sarah Hirsch at shirsch@adatshalom.org

Hope you'll join us! Audrey Bloomberg

Future Fests: February 22, March 15, April 19, and May 17

This is the spirit of the Maccabees.

The struggle is never over. The world is still a dangerous mess. If we wait for everything to be settled and perfect before we celebrate, we never will. The celebration must include gratitude for our lives and dedication to making the world better.

We have shown the ability to celebrate during times of grief and chaos, and to still remember who we are, both our identity and our values as Jews.

What we as a people can do is remind the world that it is always possible to still be fully human, and that goodness can be found in unlikely places. And that it is our responsibility to help others live lives they can be grateful for, and to help protect the world from those who want to destroy everybody's liberty.

If we do so, then we, as Lincoln said, shall not perish from this Earth.

GREEN TEAM

More about the 2025 Adamah Detroit Community Summit... Rabbi Nosanwisch and Sammi Shapiro, featured in the learning session, "Leading with Joy: Climate Action and Engagement in Jewish Congregations" will be discussing how Jewish congregations can become vibrant centers of climate action and community connection in this interactive session rooted in Jewish environmental values, offering inspiring stories, practical strategies, and joyful ways to integrate climate work into synagogue life. WE ARE PLEASED TO LET YOU KNOW...

A Gift That Enriches Our Adat Shalom Community for Generations

This summer, our synagogue family gathered in joy and gratitude to dedicate a remarkable new addition to our grounds: a beautiful covered outdoor shelter, generously donated by the Sollish family. Their gift is more than a structure — it is a place of connection, celebration, and sacred gathering.

Designed to welcome all ages, this new shelter will serve as a hub for Shabbat services, school activities, social events, and moments of community togetherness under the sky. Whether it is children learning and playing, families gathering for celebrations, or friends joining in prayer and song, the Sollish Family Mikdash will provide comfort, shade, and beauty for countless experiences.

We are deeply thankful to Gerrie, Buddy, and the Sollish family for their extraordinary generosity and vision. Their legacy gift strengthens our synagogue in the present and ensures that future generations will continue to find joy, inspiration, and community in this space.

Visit the synagogue foyer to see our rotating exhibit! With thanks to Dr. Harry Maisel and the Michigan Jewish Historical Society, we have the privilege of showcasing a new selection from this extraordinary collection every three months.

Gary Graff hosts a talk-and-music program at this year's Jewish Book Fair at 7pm Saturday, November 15 at the Berman Center for the Performing Arts. The program focuses on Gary's latest two books, "501 Essential Albums of the 80s" and "500 Essential Albums of the 90s" (both published by Motorbooks), and he'll be joined by contributing writers from both books for an interactive program that will also include performances by our own Hazzan Dan Gross and Marty Liebman, as well as metro area artists the Steve Taylor Three, Marc Dorian and Carolyn Striho & Scott Dailey. Tickets and more details are available via: thejdetroit.org/culture-education/detroit-jewish-book-fair/.

We are collecting winter coats, hats, gloves, scarfs, and boots, through the end of November in the synagogue's office lobby, in support of Tappers' Annual Coat Drive.

YEAR-END FINANCIAL PLANNING

The government allows you to count your synagogue dues payments, annual fundraising party tickets, Yom Kippur Appeal donations, and other contributions as tax deductions. To take advantage of these charitable deductions when you file your taxes this spring, we encourage you to remit this year's Adat Shalom dues before the end of December. You are also encouraged to pre-pay next year's dues. Please check with your tax advisor about a Qualified Charitable Distribution (QCD) for dues, donations, and meeting your Required Minimum Distribution (RMD).

For answers to your year-end and gift-giving questions, contact Executive Director Michael Wolf at 248-851-5100 or mwolf@adatshalom.org.

Adat Shalom Synagogue Tribute Funds

Adat Shalom's tribute funds provide support for our many important synagogue programs and services, which help to define us as an outstanding congregation.

We are very grateful to members and friends who have consistently purchased tributes marking lifecycle events and other significant occasions, and we encourage your continued support.

To arrange for a tribute, please visit adatshalom.org/tributes or call the synagogue office at 248.851.5100. We have set an $18 minimum price for tribute cards.

For information to establish a fund, please contact Executive Director Michael Wolf: 248.851.5100, ext. 224 or mwolf@adatshalom.org

To Our Valued Families and Community Members,

At our cemetery, Adat Shalom Memorial Park, we are honored to help families commemorate their loved ones through graveside services. These gatherings are deeply meaningful, offering a chance for reflection, prayer, and connection. However, we feel it is important to share some insights based on our experience, especially regarding the impact of seasonal weather on these outdoor ceremonies.

While a summer day may appear ideal—warm, sunny, and serene—the reality can be more complicated. Graveside services often last 45 minutes or more, and with additional time spent socializing, listening to speakers, and participating in prayers, attendees may be exposed to the elements far longer than anticipated. In the past year alone, we have had to call emergency services on multiple occasions due to guests experiencing medical issues during summer services—most often elderly individuals affected by heat or prolonged standing.

Winter presents even greater challenges. When temperatures fall below 20°F, icy paths and frigid air pose serious risks to older attendees. We've seen firsthand how difficult it can be for guests to walk safely, stay warm, and remain comfortable during extended outdoor services. Despite their heartfelt intentions, many struggle physically to attend and participate.

We understand that families often choose graveside services and honoring those wishes is central to our mission. Yet, we also believe it is our responsibility to gently guide families through these decisions, helping them understand the full scope of what a graveside service entails—especially in extreme weather.

Our role is not only to support remembrance, but also to protect the wellbeing of those who come to mourn. We encourage families to consider the health and safety of their guests, particularly elderly loved ones, when planning services. A graveside ceremony is not a brief moment outdoors—it is a significant event that can pose real risks depending on the season and mobility of attendees.

Compassionate planning means balancing emotional needs with practical realities. We are here to help families make informed choices that honor their loved ones while ensuring a safe and supportive environment for all who gather.

Thank you for your trust and understanding.
